In recent years how police services fulfill their duties has received increased scrutiny and calls for improvements. The Ontario Legislature passed the Community Safety and Policing Act in March 2019 to update and modernize policing in Ontario. As funders, Ontario municipalities reflect community needs and work to provide resources and contribute to the governance of police services. As police services adapt to an increasingly complex environment and work with their communities, municipalities need to be aware of the changes to the policing framework, governance needs and new accountability and oversight functions. Chair: Karen Redman, Regional Chair, Region of Waterloo Speakers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Sarah Caldwell, Director, Ministry of the Solicitor General</li> <li>• Devon Clunis, Inspector General, Inspectorate of Policing</li> <li>• Fred Kaustinen, Executive Director, Ontario Police Services Boards Association and Principal, Governedge</li> <li>• Michelle Lloyd, Director, Centre of Data Intelligence and Innovation, Inspectorate of Policing</li> <li>• Ken Weatherill, Deputy Inspector General, Inspectorate of Policing</li> </ul>

	2. The Time is Now to Transform Long-Term Care There is an opportunity to learn lessons from the COVID-19 experience and meaningfully transform long-term care to promote person centred care with the residents and staff at the centre. Many in the long-term care sector – led by municipal homes - are advocating for a less institutional feel in long term care and move towards embracing emotional models of care and smaller more home like resident areas. The Long-Term Care COVID-19 Commission indicated in their report that it is based on the principles of person centred care. These recommendations were informed by testimony and submissions from AMO, long-term care associations, residents, families, staff and other stakeholders. The pandemic caused a major “disruption” in the LTC sector that has shone a spotlight on senior’s care. The prospects and barriers for transformation will be explored in this session. Chair: John Henry, Regional Chair, Region of Durham Speakers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Mary Connell, Dementia Advisor and Person-Centred Care Project Manager, Region of Peel</li> <li>• Connie Lacy, Director of Seniors’ Services, Region of Waterloo and Chair, AdvantAge Ontario</li> <li>• Lisa Levin, CEO, AdvantAge Ontario</li> <li>• Moira Welsh, Investigative Reporter, Toronto Star, and Author</li> </ul>
	3. Municipal Digital Transformation: Building Permits in the 21st Century Across Ontario, municipalities are moving towards electronic permitting (e-permitting) technology to enhance processes such as issuing permits and licenses. E-permitting has a proven track record of assisting building officials in streamlining permitting processes from initial application to final inspection. This approach also aligns with the Government of Ontario’s interest in unlocking efficiencies, reducing administrative burdens, and digitizing processes to help municipalities reduce costs. Learn how the Municipality of Middlesex Centre implemented e-permitting technology and how different orders of government and municipal organizations are working together to expand and encourage e-permitting opportunities to municipalities across Ontario. Chair: Robert Foster, Councillor, Region of Niagara Speakers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Mary Dawson-Cole, Regional Manager - Municipal and Stakeholder Relations, MPAC</li> <li>• Niamh Hill, Acting Manager, Municipal Programs and Analytics Branch, Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing</li> <li>• Arnie Marsman, Director, Building Services and Chief Building Official, Municipality of Middlesex Centre</li> </ul>
